AN ACTION IN EJECTMENT

Judge Whittle Sustains Former Decision in Case of Interstate Coal and Iron Company.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WYTHEVILLE, VA., June 29.—At the time of its adjournment Thursday, the Supreme Court of Appeals handed down opinions in a number of cases.
In McMurray and others vs. Martha Dixon, the judgment of the Circuit Court of Boott county was affirmed, Judge Buchanan delivering the decision of the court.

of land in the possession of McMurray and others. Dixon having died prior to the trial of the cause, it was proceeded in in the name of his wife, in whose favor n judgment was rendered for the land sued for.

In affirming this judgment the Supreme Court holds that the cause of action having arison during coverture, and the husband having died prior to the trial of the case, the cause of action survived in the wife, and the statute limiting the time within which suit might be brought by a married woman to twenty years applies, rather than the limitation of ten years as would have been the case had the husband been living at the time of the trial It is also decided that the party ousted may recover the premises the trial It is also decided that the party ousted may recover the premises in ejectment upon his possession merely, and his right to recoven can only be rested by showing that the defendant who entered upon and ousted his possession either has title himelf or authority to enter under the title, and in such case the burden of, proof is not upon the plainting to show that a defendant who ousted him is not the true owner or had no authority to enter.

As the evidence showed that the plain-ousted him is not the true owner or had no authority to enter.

As the evidence showed that the plaintiff purchased the lund in 1874, prior to the beginning of legislation in Virginia securing to married women what is known as their statutory separate estate, and there was no proof tending to show that the land was her equitable separate estate, it is declared that the instruction telling the jury that the land was plaintiff's common law estate, if it was purchased by her prior to 1878, could not have resulted in any injury.

It is further held that no parol agreement to establish a boundary, and thus exclude from the operation of a deed land embraced therein, can divest, change or affect the legal rights of the parties growing out of the deed itself.

The court is of opinion that the evidence justified the verdect of the jury, and the refusal of the lower court to set it aside is therefore approved.

Suit for Mineral Lands, Interstate Coal and Iron Company vas.

ignature.

It is now decided that the paper was nadmissible, notwithstanding its acnowledgment, because the court had iready held that the Imboden compresise aud the suit brought to annul had no place in the record of this suit, and the Stratton agreement was merely subordinate paper in relation to the ame subject matter; that there having een a general objection to the introduction of these papers, if for any reacon they were not admissible, the ruling f the trial court in excluding them nust be justained.

The subject of controversy in this case in the minerals underlying the surface of the passicular tract of land in question, title to which, it is claimed, has een separated from the surface.

The court says that it cannot declare.

been separated from the surface.

The court says that it cannot declare as counsel request, even if it should be of that opinion, that the Interstate Coal & Iron Company has an equitable right to the minerals underlying the land in controversy, for the functions of the court are exhausted when it has ruled upon the specific assignments of error, and a mere advisory opinion touching extraneous questions, expressed for the purpose of influencing future litigation, would be gratuitous and unwarranted.

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had cozems on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good dectors to do all they could, but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuttoura Ointment and three bottles of Cuttour Dectards. and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with used the third bottle, I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fleshier than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to get the Cutioura Remedies and get well quicker than all the doctors in the State can cure you." Mrs. M. E. ## CURED OF ITCHING HUMOR

"I have been troubled with a humor on the back of my neck and head for four or five years. It had an itching and burning sensation, and was a very uncomfortable feeling. I have used the Cuticurs Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent Pills three menths, and can say I am completely cured." Respectfully,

Brech of Contract.

Brech of Contract.

In Southern Railway Company vs. Forgey and Richardson, from the Corporation Court of the city of Bristol, the judgment is reversed.

This was a suit against the Norfolk & Western Railway Company, and the Southern Railway Company, to recover for the alleged breach of a contract for the transportation of a carload of horses and mules from Morristown, Tenm., to Norfolk, Va.

The Supreme Court finds that the lower court erred in giving instructions which submitted to the jury questions of negligence on talleged in the declaration, and also questions of negligence as to which there was no proof. It is said that the court cannot say that these instructions did not affect the verdet of the jury to the prejudicie of the Southern Railway Company, and for the errors in them the judgment complained of must be reversed.

The verdict and judgment was in favor for the property; that John A. Plerce in anticipation of insolvency had the conveyance made to his wife with intent to hinder, delay and defraud his creditors, and that the deed was therefore both fraudulent and voluntary.

Judge Whittle speaking for the Supreme Court affirms the decree of the Circuit Court of Smyth county, upholding the conveyance, saying that the evidence abundantly sustains the averments contained in the answer; that as an indicement to his son to remain in Virginia instead of setting in the West Robert Pierce, father of John A. Pierce, agreed to assist his daughter-in-law in buying a home, and contributed it. Su lowards its purchase; the residue being paid by her out of her own resources; and that it plainly appears that they indebtedness to which it is sought to subject the property was not contracted until two years after the date of the conveyance in question.

It is further said that the plaintiff has neither alleged nor proved that the hishand was indotted at the date the conveyance was made, and has wholly falled to establish the charge that it was made in anticipation of future indebtedness and in fraud of the rights of oreditors, whose debts were not contracted until nearly two years after the deed was executed and admitted to record. Under these circumstances it is declared that, own if the money paid by the father was a loant to the son and the latter supplied the residue of the purchase money, the transaction, at most, would smount only to a voluntary settlement by the husband upon the wife.

To Recover Debt.

While undercutting coal in the mine of the company with an electric machine, some overhanging coal fell upon Mace and broke his log, for which injury he sued to recover damages. The opinion deals only with the assignment of error to the action of the court in refusing to set aside the verdict as contrary to the law and the evidence.

The review of the evidence, consisting of the testimony of Mace and one offer witness (none having been introduced on behalf of the defendant), shows that these electric machines are used to out under the bottom of the seam of coal a shallow swathe for a distance of six feet, so that the miners can more easily pick or shoot down with sowder the remaining coal.

It was the duty of the minors digging we shooting down the coal to properly wen off the face of the coal before leaving it for the machine men to undercut gain, but on the day of the accident, when Mace and his companion went into this room to undercut the coal, they build that the miners had left a bulge bout five feet from the floor, overhangs about two feet.

Mace testified that he knew at the Boys May Have Crackers.

The Druids' banquet at the Manhattan Club last night was a complete success, and so pleased were all the members with the function that they decided to ropeat it in about a month. About fifty members were present.

The time was vory enjoyably spent in discussing the crabs, oysters, sandwichs and other delectable eatables and drink-affes, and many short speeches were heard.

Mr. Alexander Bagley acted as toast-master and introduced Mr. Charles Hill, who spoke eloquently on "The Devotion of Druids." Mr. C. B. Ford made an enthuskatic speech on the order. Among the other speakers were Masses. B. N. Sutherland, Mr. Manly B. Hamos, William Gratsnowsky, Phil, Metz and Otis Wells. Mr. Lloyd, one of the oldest members of the order, also made a short talk, as did Mr. Peter Bonini.

At the conclusion a rising vote of thanks was extended to James Munn for the manner in which he had served the banquet.
